

Hybrid Teaching: Integrating Remote Students

Dr Anne E Ferrey

Course Director: Msc in Translational Health Sciences

What is Hybrid Teaching?

Some students attend in person as usual

Some students attend remotely from their home country

- Temptation to focus on the technology
- Instead, the key focus should be communication

Strategies

Problems:

- Huge cognitive load for lecturer
- Remote students feel sidelined

Solutions:

- Module leads specifically call on remote students first
- Remote “office hours” for remote students
- Technology agreed and tested in advance
- Communicate with remote students about technology

Teaching Assistants

- Specific point of engagement for remote students
- Ensure sessions are recorded
- Monitor Teams chat
- Relay questions from remote students to lecturer or flag that there is a hand up on Teams
- For in-class small group activities:
 - Assign remote students to remote-only groups and help to facilitate on Teams, OR
 - Partner with remote students if there are not enough to form a group